REGINA CAELI

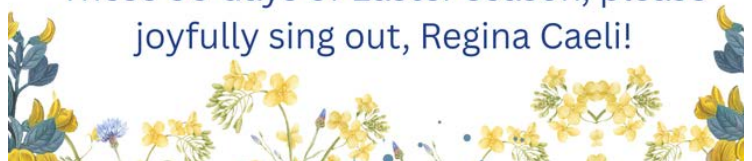

During this holy season of Easter, we will be singing a hymn at the end of Communion, Regina Caeli. "Queen of Heaven" is a Marian hymn full of Alleluias that Christ is risen! A song not of sorrow, but triumph. We can reflect on our Mother Mary, who gave birth, witnessed His crucifixion, and now rejoices in her Son's victory over sin and death.

*O queen of heaven, rejoice! Alleluia:
For he whom you merited to hear, Alleluia,
Has risen as he said, Alleluia.
Pray for us to God, Alleluia.*

According to legend, Pope St. Gregory the Great (d. 604) heard angel voices above the church singing the first three verses one Easter morning. He then added the fourth verse, asking for God's prayers.

These 50 days of Easter season, please joyfully sing out, Regina Caeli!

Welcome (back) to the Staff

AMANDA MAHLE

We are pleased to announce that Amanda Mahle has accepted the role of Liturgy and Parishioner Engagement Coordinator at St. John Neumann!

Amanda previously served on our staff as Office Manager before taking her talents to The Church of the Ascension in Johnstown, where she assisted with their continued growth. We are delighted to welcome her back to St. John Neumann and are excited for the gifts and energy she brings to this important role.

Amanda and her family have been part of our parish community since 2015.

Guide Book & Directory Advertising Opportunity

We are in the process of updating our annual Guide Book & Directory for the church. This book will contain everything pertinent to our church: the various ministries, organizations, committees, activities, functions, and events plus a complete directory of all members.

This book is being provided and direct-mailed to each family at no cost to our church, and it is again being subsidized by local businesses that advertise. If you own or manage a business and would like to find out about advertising in our book, please call Jackie Sutton in the Parish Office.

Recent survey results by Guide Book Publishing show that 92.1% of families would rather patronize a Guide Book & Directory advertiser over a non-advertiser. It "will pay" to advertise in our new Guide Book & Directory.

Does our Church database have YOUR family membership record correct?

Do you want your record published? If you have not already informed the Parish Office about changes to your record, please let us know now so that the information in the Guide Book & Directory is correct.

2026 SJN Fish Fry —
Thank You!

Though this note comes a bit later than planned, our gratitude is just as strong. This year's Fish Fry was both highly successful and, at times, challenging. Over the course of six weeks, we served more than 4,000 meals—made possible by the dedication of over 80 volunteers who contributed a combined 1,200+ hours.

We're especially grateful to everyone who helped us navigate the unexpected power outage just 30 minutes into the March 13 event. A heartfelt thank-you goes to our dishwashing team, who stepped up and washed every dish by hand that evening—an extraordinary effort that kept things moving.

Finally, special thanks to Jet's Pizza for generously supplying the cheese and vegetarian pizzas that so many enjoyed.

Thank you to everyone who volunteered, supported, and joined us—we couldn't have done it without you!

Congratulations to Our First Communicants!

Why “Who Says” can be Important in the Liturgy

By Paul Stokell, Adult Formation Director

Not long ago I spoke with a parishioner about what I'd written on a practice that varies widely across parishes and dioceses alike. There's plenty of practices like that, given the options available to presiders and assemblies in the celebration of Catholic liturgy. Some are more important than others, and some are – let's say this now – non-negotiable. The parishioner pushed back a bit, saying, “Well...who says we have to do it that way?” Excellent question.

There are all sorts of resources out there (official and unofficial) used by dioceses and parishes on how to celebrate the Eucharist and the other Sacraments, what should (and shouldn't) be in a church worship space, what makes for proper sacred music, and so forth. Those in formation to become priests and deacons get liturgical training prior to ordination, and they are given opportunities for “continuing education.” Apart from the liturgical books themselves (which include The Roman Ritual in their titles), a full list could take up this entire Bulletin.

They usually agree on the important things – most of the time. The needs of the faithful (local background, ethnic makeup, socioeconomics, etc.) and the resources available (material, financial, historical) give guidance for interpretation, too. All of this allows clergy and ministers to give the best “pastoral application” of the rites of the Church. I'll give a recent example to show these in action.

In the 1990s there was experimentation in liturgy, music, and art as a result of the changes allowed by the Second Vatican Council (1962–1965). Some of these experiments were good. Some were very strange. In the midst of this, a writer in the Archdiocese of Chicago with a background in Catholic liturgy mused about how the season of Lent should be a “desert experience,” and suggested that Baptismal Fonts and Holy Water stoups (found at entrances to the church space) should be replaced with sand. Nothing existed in opposition to the practice, and so American pastors and others began turning their fonts into sandboxes for six weeks out of the year. Some well-meaning folks welcomed the practice...others not so much. One seminary I know of filled their font with sand one day, only to discover the following morning that a student added a beach bucket, sand shovel, and those little green toy soldiers. Questions about the appropriateness of this were raised to pastors (who make the major liturgical decisions for a parish), and to diocesan Divine Worship Directors (clergy or lay people with education and training in liturgy) and local bishops.

Finally, the question took the form of a quaeritur (“it has been asked”) sent to what is now the Dicastery for Divine Worship and the Discipline of the Sacraments in Rome, not far from Saint Peter's Square. Any such dubium (“doubt” about something) is answered with a responsum, and what Rome says, goes. The brief reply came in two parts – first, Lent is primarily a reminder of one's Baptism, and second, Holy Water is a sacramental (a created object used for devotion by the faithful). Therefore, Holy Water should never be denied to those who want or need it. And with that, the sand was swept away, and ultimately the Chicago writer found another line of work.

At the highest level, the Church's universal liturgical norms come from Rome. The Constitution on the Sacred Liturgy, Sacrosanctum Concilium, states: “Regulation of the sacred liturgy depends solely on the authority of the Church...no other person, not even a priest, may add, remove, or change anything in the liturgy on his own authority” (SC 22). This is a foundational principle. Rome establishes the structure, texts, and essential elements of the rites. The Dicastery for Divine Worship interprets these norms and responds to questions from around the world, as in the “sand-in-the-font” case.

The General Instruction of the Roman Missal (GIRM) says: “The diocesan Bishop... must promote, regulate, and be vigilant over the liturgical life in his diocese” (GIRM 387). He ensures that the universal norms are followed, but he also has legitimate authority to adapt certain elements to the pastoral needs of his people. He may issue diocesan guidelines, approve liturgical training, and oversee the construction or renovation of worship spaces.

On the parish level, the pastor has the primary responsibility for how the liturgy is celebrated. The Code of Canon Law states that the pastor “is to see to it that the Most Holy Eucharist is the center of the parish assembly of the faithful” (CIC 528 §2). He applies the norms of the Church and the directives of the bishop, balancing fidelity to the rites with pastoral sensitivity. He consults parish staff, musicians, and liturgical ministers, but ultimately he is accountable for the parish's liturgical life.

Finally, the People of God have a role. The faithful “should not be there as strangers or silent spectators” but should participate “fully, consciously, and actively” (SC 14). Their participation shapes the liturgy – not by making decisions about its structure, but by bringing their faith, voices, and lives to the celebration.

In short, the liturgy is not a free-for-all, nor is it micromanaged from afar. It is a shared “public work” (leitourgia) guided by the Holy Spirit through the Church's hierarchy, celebrated faithfully by pastors and assemblies, and safeguarded by the norms that preserve our unity. When we ask, “Who says we have to do it that way?” the answer is: the Church herself, in her wisdom, for the good of all who gather to worship the living God.

If you have questions about how the Mass is celebrated (in this parish or elsewhere), or about any of the other Sacraments, send them to pstokell@stjohnsunbury.org!
