One Sheep Matters

Deacon Carl Calcara has recently published a new book, One Sheep Matters: A Practical Approach for Rescuing the Wandering Sheep.

Inspired by the Parable of the Lost Sheep, One Sheep Matters is a practical Catholic guide rooted in Scripture, prayer, and real-world wisdom. The book equips everyday Catholics to become spiritual shepherds, helping those who have drifted from the faith return to Christ with courage, patience, and love.

A COMMUNITY BUILT ON FAITH

Celebrating Mass for 50 Years in Sunbury and the 50th year of sainthood for St. John Neumann.

St. John Neumann: Missionary, Bishop and American Saint

The story of St. John Nepomucene Neumann is, in many ways, the story of the Catholic Church in nineteenth-century America.

He arrived in the United States as a young immigrant with little money, limited knowledge of English, and no certainty about what the future would hold. Yet through extraordinary faith, tireless work, and unwavering dedication to God's people, he became one of the most influential Catholic leaders in American history and, ultimately, the first male citizen of the United States to be canonized a saint.

At 25 years old, in 1836, he left his homeland and crossed the Atlantic alone, placing his future entirely in God's hands.

Shortly after his arrival, Bishop John Dubois of New York ordained him to the priesthood on June 25, 1836, at Old St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City.

After several years of frontier ministry, Father Neumann sought a religious community, and in 1842, he joined the Congregation of the Most Holy Redeemer, commonly known as the Redemptorists. The Redemptorists were dedicated to preaching missions and serving those who were spiritually neglected, making them a natural fit for Father Neumann.

Before taking his final profession, he served as a Redemptorist novice missionary for three months in 1841 in Northern Ohio, and was based at St. Alphonsus Church south of Norwalk, Ohio (Huron County). Father Neumann's signature appears in the parish baptismal records, and he performed Mass in a frontier log cabin, which has been restored and maintained on the parish grounds. A medal commemorating the dogma of the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary, held December 8, 1854, was found in the cabin during the dismantling of the home. Bishop Neumann was able to return to Europe for the celebration and sent the Carabin family the medal that was found in the rafters in 1992.

In 1852, Pope Pius IX appointed Father Neumann as the fourth Bishop of Philadelphia. The appointment came as a surprise to Bishop Neumann himself, who reportedly attempted to decline the honor.

Bishop Neumann firmly believed that Catholic children needed schools where academic excellence and religious formation could be integrated. As Ohio dioceses expanded their school systems during the nineteenth century, many adopted principles similar to those Neumann had implemented in Philadelphia.

On January 5, 1860, Bishop Neumann was carrying out his ordinary pastoral duties in Philadelphia when he suddenly collapsed and died, apparently from a stroke. He was only 48 years old. The news spread quickly throughout Philadelphia and beyond. Thousands attended his funeral, and many people immediately spoke of his holiness. Stories of his humility, generosity, and deep spirituality continued to circulate long after his death.

On June 19, 1977, Pope Paul VI canonized John Nepomucene Neumann in St. Peter's Square in Rome. Thousands of American pilgrims traveled to the Vatican for the historic event. During the ceremony, the Pope praised Neumann's missionary spirit, pastoral charity, humility, and dedication to immigrants and education. He became the first male citizen of the United States to be declared a saint by the Catholic Church and the first American bishop to be canonized.

Decades after his death, numerous Ohio parishes and schools were named in his honor. Among them is St. John Neumann Church in Sunbury. The parish's choice of patron was especially fitting. Like Neumann's Philadelphia, Sunbury and Delaware County have experienced significant population growth and the challenges of building a vibrant Catholic community in a rapidly expanding area. The saint's dedication to education, evangelization, and pastoral leadership continues to inspire the parish that bears his name.

For more information about our patron, visit saintjohnsunbury.org/our-patron.

This week kicks off our celebration of our patron's canonization, culminating with a Mass with the Bishop on September 4, 2027.
