Thank You

To the wonderful people of St. John Neumann,

Thank you very much for a refreshing and joy-filled summer assignment! To pray, live, and work here for a few months and observe the missionary spirit and growth happening among the Catholics in Sunbury was a very unique grace of God, and one that I deeply appreciated.

As I return to seminary formation at Mt. St. Mary's Seminary in Cincinnati, please keep all the seminarians of the Diocese of Columbus, including me, in your prayers – may God continue to send us more seminarians, especially from St. John Neumann.

Sincerely,

Ray Duffy

St. Philomena

Guest at 9:00 & 11:00 am

Mondiek will also bring with him relics of St. Philomena, including the largest bone fragment of the saint in the Northern Hemisphere, several smaller bone relics, and a lock of her hair.

Does Language Matter?

Written by Paul Stokell, Adult Formation Director

Not long ago, one of our deacons chanted Kyrie Eleison (“Lord, have mercy”) at a Sunday Mass. A parishioner later asked, “Why do we still use Latin at Mass? What about Vatican II?”

Good question—though Kyrie Eleison isn’t Latin, but Greek, the same language commonly spoken during Jesus’ time. People used Greek in everyday life, Latin for official matters, and their native tongue at home. Our “church Latin” came a bit later but was also once a widely spoken language. While not common today, Latin remains important in theology, law, science, and philosophy.

After the Second Vatican Council (1962–65), the Church encouraged use of the vernacular (local language) in the liturgy. Still, Vatican II never abolished Latin. In fact, the Council stated that Latin “is to be preserved in the Latin rites” (Sacrosanctum Concilium 36), and encouraged the faithful to learn parts of the Mass in Latin (SC 54).

At SJN, we honor this tradition by using Latin during the Eucharistic Prayer in Advent and Lent. (And yes—there’s one other time Greek is used in a liturgy. Can you guess when?)

The Roman Catholic Church is officially known as the Latin Rite—Latin is our liturgical heritage and spiritual birthright. That said, our liturgy today can be celebrated in many languages, based on the Roman Missal, Third Edition (2010), which guides the Mass worldwide. This shouldn’t be confused with the older Tridentine or Traditional Latin Mass, which dates to the 16th century and is celebrated occasionally with a bishop’s permission. That older form gave way to the revised, vernacular Mass following Vatican II.

Some believe that the use of Latin at Mass prefigures a return to that older form of the Mass, or other former ways of doing things. Not so! We are privileged to worship in both Latin and our native language, usually English. In fact, in 2001, Pope St. John Paul II emphasized that translations should remain faithful to the Latin original—leading to the revised English Mass in 2010.

By the way – it’s during the Commemoration of the Lord’s Passion on Good Friday, one of the most dramatic points in the Great Triduum – that we hear Greek again: during the Good Friday liturgy, in the form of the Trisagion:

Agios o Theós, Agios iskhūrós, Agios āthánatos, eléison hēmās
("Holy God, Holy Mighty One, Holy Immortal One, have mercy on us").
